Progress

- The app foundation has been laid out, and the design decided. We will be using one activity with a FragmentContainer. This FragmentContainer will be used to load the recording menu and the settings menu. We are using Github as our version control in order to sync our work and track changes. To record audio, we will be using the android.media.MediaRecorder class. We have yet to implement the audio recording and are still in the process of creating the UI.
